MSU Teaching & Learning Committee

An invitation to join a new book discussion group

Spring Semester 2010

Because of your ongoing interest in the importance of improving teaching, the Teaching & Learning Committee would like to invite you to participate in an exciting new project that will begin next semester.

We are starting a book discussion group that will meet three times during the semester and discuss six selected chapters from Stephen D. Brookfield's book *Becoming a Critically Reflective Teacher. These sessions will be facilitated by members of the Teaching & Learning Committee.

There are a limited number of spaces in the group. If you are interested in participating, please RSVP to annea@montana.edu by Monday, Dec. 7, 2009. We will send you more information at that time so that you can begin your reading over the semester break.

A few copies of this book will be available for lending from the Office of the Provost.*

Looking for someone to work with you individually on teaching?

The Teaching Help Desk has faculty who are available for consultation on various topics such as course design, test development, grading strategies, and more. Contact Charlie Pinkava at tlc@montana.edu or 994-5572.
